

CHILDREN'S CORNER

OH, MY ISN'T HE JUST THE DARLING, MY BOLD SOJER BOY

Nathaniel Davis Ayer, Jr., Enlists, Even Though It Breaks Mamma's Heart, but Decides to Wait for Next Regiment.

NATHANIEL DAVIS AYER, JR.

Nathaniel Davis Ayer, Jr., enlisted and started to go against his mother's wishes. The parting was sad, but through the tears came the words of a brave fighting man: "Mamma, I know it breaks your heart to see me go, and it breaks mine, too, but what would the world think of me if I were to let the glory of England be trampled in the dust while I stayed home with Nana?"

not the recruiting officer said it was absolutely necessary to give the full name in case the applicant chanced to be wounded in battle. As he was about to join his regiment for the front, the "sojers" papa took him aside and said: "Son, I fear it is my duty to tell you that you are saying goodbye to your parents for the last time. When you are wounded and left to die there on the cold battlefield, and when night comes and there are no lights, no dinner, and no mamma or 'Nana' to say 'night' to you, only the black darkness and the cold wind blowing over your head."

But that was all. Father's advice was interrupted by: "Hurry, they don't need me yet, and I think they'll stay here until the next regiment goes." Nathaniel Davis Ayer, Jr., is almost as much as seven years old.

A fly buzzed all about To find a passage out; Then on the window sill A minute stood quite still.

I thought he was asleep And caught him just to keep; He looked so fine a fellow With rings of black and yellow. He scolded dreadfully And stuck a pin in me. I dropped him pretty quick; My hand was awful sick.

BEFORE THE SANDMAN COMES

ONCE upon a time, the leaves of the silver poplar were green both top and bottom just like the leaves of all other trees and the poplar tree was a nice proper tree just like all other trees. Then something happened. Something usually does you know when things are entirely too nice and proper. One day, when the poplar leaves were playing with the breezes, one little breeze said, "Oh, you should see the trees in other countries as we do. Sometimes the leaves are gray, sometimes pale green and some are brighter colors."

At last the fairies who lived in the tree got tired of their complaining, and the fairy queen said: "If you really wish to change your color you may do so, but remember—you can never change back to the beautiful green color you now are."

And though the breeze laughed at them, they wouldn't play.

The leaves all laughed and declared they never, never wanted to be green again, so the fairy painters set to work with their magic paint and soon the leaves were grayish green on top and silver underneath.

When all was done and the paints carefully put away the leaves shook themselves dry and began to look around. "Aren't we beautiful!" they exclaimed as they primmed and preened in the sunshine.

"Now that you like your color," said the breezes, "come and play with us again."

"Oh, no," said the leaves loftily, "we don't care to play with you any more. We like to have you come and see us, for you turn and twist us so we can see all our pretty colors, but we couldn't just common play any more, we are too fine for that!"

So the breezes came and stayed a little while and swayed and rustled the leaves and the silver linings glistened in the sunshine—then they went and played and frolicked in the oaks and maples with the leaves who were not so dressed up.

OCEAN LINER AFIRE AT BROOKLYN PIER; OIL FEEDS FLAMES

Half a Dozen of Crew Overcome Rescuing Shipmates From Hold of the Santa Anna. Vessel Loaded With Valuable Cargo From Mediterranean. Cardinal Farley Was One of its Passengers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Fire caused by spontaneous combustion in the hold of the steamship Santa Anna, of the Fabre line, was discovered early today, while she was moored to a pier at the foot of 31st street, Brooklyn. Several fire engines were rushed to the steamship's aid, but the dense smoke made it impossible for the firemen to get at the blaze between decks, and they were forced to work in relays to avoid being overcome.

By 11 o'clock the damage had amounted to $100,000, with the prospect of treble that amount if the freighters were unable to save some of the valuable cargo of silks, velvets and herbs in the ship's hold. Two fireboats were assigned to fight the fire, and it proved so stubborn that Captain Paisley said he believed it was fed with the big consignments of olive oil carried by the Santa Anna.

Half a dozen members of the crew were overcome by smoke in fighting the fire, and were rescued by shipmates who risked their lives entering the smoke-filled hold.

The hold in which the flames were first discovered is next to two coal bunkers, which quickly became a roaring furnace. Vast quantities of water were pumped on the burning fuel. A huge volume of smoke settled over the neighborhood, and the police reserves were called out to maintain the fire lines.

The Santa Anna arrived here yesterday from Mediterranean ports with a list of passengers, among them being Cardinal Farley, and a large cargo of mixed merchandise. A short time after the blaze was discovered the ship's hold became a veritable furnace, and the hatches were unshipped to permit removal of part of the cargo. The vessel is 350 feet long, 14,000 tons register and flies the French flag.

Two days out from Naples a mutiny broke out aboard the vessel among the crew. Five of them were placed in irons.

WEATHER IS BALMY AGAIN, YET FOLKS ARE KICKING

Seems Too Warm to Keep the Woollens on They Donned Yesterday. The battle of the seasons turns and summer-time is raising its hooves upon the autumn breeze. 'Twas garments of a saucy kind and woollens men are dallying. Heavy garments make sorters' 'neath their heavy, heavy coats.

The sportive seasons played another trick on Philadelphia today. Having lured the city into donning its heavy weights by cold, raw blasts from the North, autumn today fell back upon its high ground intrincacies to reform. Summer, its ranks riddled, it is true, nevertheless is making the most of the respite today and is doing its best to deceive everybody.

Yet folk are not happy. Not that the ideal weather is objectionable, save to the cold air peat who likes to walk around in the snow in unshod feet, but the day is too warm for woollens and one of those opened again to an accompaniment of withering sarcasm from the conductor, the motorman, the P. R. T. and its heirs and assigns. Tomorrow autumn may attack again.

FAT MAN KEPT PRISONER IN A TELEPHONE BOOTH. Hiram Mattison, of Wilmington, a man of great girth, hurried into a telephone booth in the first floor southeast corner of a city hall corridor today and slammed the door shut. The door is of the type that folds inward.

Nearly half an hour later one of the elevator operators heard a dull thumping, and investigating found that it came from the telephone booth. He was so fat that several other attendants could not see whether he was through talking. Concluding that the man was simply drumming with his fingers, the operator went away.

Some time later a passerby heard the same thumping. He got close enough to the booth to realize that Mattison was trying to get out, but being too fat to turn around and reach the handle of the door, found it impossible. Mattison leaned heavily against the door, trying to get it to open. He was so fat that he could not see whether he was through talking. Concluding that the man was simply drumming with his fingers, the operator went away.

WOMAN DECLARES MAN HYPNOTIZED HER INTO MARRIAGE

Now She Asks Court to Compel Him to Support Her Defendant Calls Woman Total Stranger.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic nominee for United States Senator in Pennsylvania, is to appear before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections on Monday to urge favorable action on the Norris resolution. This announcement was made today by Senator Kern, after he had failed to get together a quorum for a meeting of the committee this morning.

Two Washington party congressmen, Kelly and Walters, appeared at the committee room this morning to testify as to the expenditures of Boies Penrose in the Pennsylvania primary. Failure of the committee to provide for members to attend the meeting, however, made it necessary for Chairman Kern to announce a recess until Monday, at 10 o'clock when Walters, Kelly and Walters will be heard.

Despite the strong opposition of the Old Guard of the Senate to the Norris resolution, which provides for investigation of the Pennsylvania and Illinois senatorial primaries, Senator Clapp and other advocates are now more hopeful that the resolution will be favorably reported and that the Senate will order the investigations.

GIRL RELATES HOW SHE WAS FORCED INTO LIFE OF SHAME

Woman Accused of Luring Her From Father's Restaurant. Repentant tears rolled down the cheeks of 16-year-old Katherine Emma White, 635 North Tenth street, as she told in Central Station today how Mrs. Leonora Taylor, 1543 North Bouvier street, lured her away from her father's restaurant, penned her in a house on Fairmount avenue, deprived her of clothing and finally induced her to lead a life of shame. Mrs. Taylor was held by Magistrate Pennek in $2500 bail charged with violating the Mann white slave act.

Katherine White was brought to Philadelphia last night after a year's search instituted by her father in nearly every large city in the East. She was found on a farm in Watertown, N. Y., by Mrs. Mabel Kellogg, superintendent of the New York Society to Protect Children from Cruelty. Mrs. Kellogg learned the girl was a runaway and, gaining her confidence, was later found looking in a room where Mrs. Taylor lived.

The girl testified today to meeting the woman in her father's restaurant. She was induced to accompany Mrs. Taylor, who later found herself locked in a room at 917 Fairmount avenue, and was deprived of all but scanty wearing apparel. Later she was made an inmate at a boarding house on North Tenth street and again at 1533 Park avenue.

The girl declared she was never permitted to leave any of the houses in which she lived until she went to the Park avenue place. Here she said she frequently went out, but was always afraid to return home. Later she went to New York and finally to the farm where Mrs. Kellogg found her.

The girl's father, who operates a restaurant at 635 North Tenth street, stated his daughter had been lost last March and since then he has neither seen nor heard from her although he caused a search to be made in all large Eastern cities. He is broken hearted over her absence and declared he had almost given her up for lost.

The police are searching for three men who are said to be implicated in the girl's disappearance and her subsequent career. On the stand today the girl frequently buried her face in her hands and sobbed. She said she wanted to go home and begin life anew. Frequently she glared at Mrs. Taylor.

MAN BARRADE WITH JEWELRY TAKEN AFTER A STRUGGLE

Companion Escapes From Street Car When Policeman Attempts Arrest. A glittering pile of jewelry, valued at more than $1000, which the police believe has been stolen from stores, was taken from the pockets of a man captured after a struggle on a street car at Tenth and York streets by Sergeant Ryan, of the Park and Lehigh avenue station. A companion of the alleged thief escaped by jumping through the car window.

The man arrested gave his name as Frank Mullman, Sears street near Front. The police say he is an old offender and was released not more than three months ago from the Eastern Penitentiary. He was confined in Central station this afternoon.

Two men met Sergeant Ryan on the street shortly before noon today and asked him to take a package. The person they had in mind was a man who they described as having a mustache and wearing a dark suit. They described the alleged burglars and Sergeant Ryan started on the hunt.

He saw two persons boarding a street car at Tenth and Cumberland streets who answered the description furnished. Ryan also boarded the car and, walking up to the suspects, placed them under arrest and they started for the rear. Both men put up a struggle. During the fight one escaped by jumping through an open window. He has not yet been captured and his companion says he knows nothing about him.

Searched at the station house Mullman took from his pockets rings, watches, scarf pins and fraternal organization emblems. Many of these had tags on them. This leads the police to believe they have been stolen from jewelry stores.

DEPLORES WAR'S LOSSES

Miss Thomas condemned the destruction of Louvain and the Rheims cathedral and said that as the result of this war, the world will lose the most treasured works of art. At the same time, however, Miss Thomas was very optimistic as to what this generation will see as a result of the conflict.

"Your generation will see some very wonderful world movements. First, unification and universal peace among nations. Your generation will also see the abolition of the drink horror. Already one half of the territory of the United States is under the ban of prohibition. Other countries, too, are awake to the temperance question. Great Britain and Russia are fighting this war without cessation. Your generation will also see the participation of women in every field of human activity. Women will interest themselves in colleges and schools, asylums and hospitals, reformatories, prisons, and in every other branch of human activity. Women will, I believe, do much to reform the existing terrible abuses. Only the mothers of the world can set the problems connected with these things right again.

WHAT OTHERS LONG TO DO. "Because of these opportunities I entreat you to use your student life at Bryn Mawr college wisely. In studying here you are doing what thousands of other girls are longing to do. The privilege you have that you can not have, if you miss the best of your four years here, you will be able to guide other women to use wisely these new avenues of influence. You will be able to stand side by side with your college-brother and husbands. There is no greater happiness than the joy of being able to use to the full all your intellectual and moral powers in being able to lead your generation."

One hundred and two students have registered in the entering class up until the present time, it was announced. The registration of graduate students is not yet complete, but 14 resident fellows and 22 resident scholars have been admitted. In addition, in spite of the war, three German women and one French woman are expected to make use of the scholarships for foreigners awarded in the spring.

Before beginning her address, Miss Thomas was presented with a check for $2000 as the proceeds of the great fire given May 5 of this year. The total proceeds amounted to $370,1000 of which was given to the Wellesley fire relief fund.

BRYN MAWR COLLEGE SEES END OF WARS IN PRESENT STRIFE

President Thomas in Address to Students Predicts Universal Peace—Map of Europe to Be Remade.

"This present war will be called not only the greatest war in all history, but it will, I confidentially believe, be called the last great war."

This was the prediction made by Miss M. Carrie Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr College, in her address to the students at the opening of the 30th academic year of the institution, this morning. Miss Thomas prophesied that in case Great Britain, France and Russia are victorious Europe will see a re-arrangement of national boundaries in agreement with the wishes of the peoples now living under the rule of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Russia.

"I believe," said Miss Thomas, "that we shall see the map of Europe remade before our eyes and many fabled territories and people either neutralized or absorbed into the nations to whom they belong by race or choice, so that there will be in the future no bones for the hounds of war so snarl over."

She said she had a united Poland once more. It scarcely seems too much to hope that we shall have compulsory disarmament and a strong international police composed of land troops and navy and air force with international arbitration court in perpetual session at the Hague with plenary powers. If Germany and Austria win all this may not come to pass, but it is a possibility even if it comes at last through the intervention of all the rest of the civilized world."
